Accessible Indoor Air in the Built Environment

ASEQ-EHAQ is pleased to announce that, with Ethic's approval received by Women's College Hospital, and with the participation of Accessibility Standards Canada/the Government of Canada, we are excited to launch a new research initiative, aimed at improving indoor air quality (IAQ) for individuals with multiple chemical sensitivity (MCS), other disabilities and health conditions.

For detailed information about the research, please visit our website:

<https://aseq-ehaq.ca/en/accessible-air-in-the-built-environment/>

We are seeking assistance in two key areas:

Scent-Free Locations for IAQ Testing

If you are aware of or have access to scent-free environments/spaces in educational institutions or workplaces, we kindly request your collaboration in providing the names and locations of these buildings using our form: <https://forms.gle/tktpq1C3TVZZPW7B9>. These locations will serve as critical settings for our IAQ assessments.

Recruitment of Focus Group Participants

We are looking for individuals who experience discomfort or symptoms from exposure to fragrances, including scented and other products, especially those who face challenges related to IAQ that impact accessibility to the workplace, health care, or the community, to participate in our focus groups. To determine your eligibility, please complete our screening questionnaire using the provided link: https://dfcmutorontoca.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_8AZfkcWUbyAnqgS. If you are aware of potential participants or organizations that offer support to individuals with similar disabilities, please share the link with them.

If you are interested in supporting our research by providing scent-free locations or assisting with focus group participant recruitment, please let us know. Your contribution would be greatly appreciated.

Thank you for your time, and we look forward to hearing from you.
