

What People with MCS Need in This Election

Who We Are:

Canadians with Multiple Chemical Sensitivity (MCS)—a medically and legally recognized disability triggered by common chemical exposures.

Our Challenges:

- Inaccessible healthcare, transit, and workplaces due to fragranced and chemical products
- Lack of policy recognition and medical coding
- Higher poverty and isolation despite education levels

What We're Asking For:

1. Fragrance-Free Federal Leadership
 - Scent-free policies in all federal workplaces and services
2. Recognition & Data
 - ICD code for MCS; inclusion in health surveys and policy
3. Housing & Infrastructure
 - Investment in accessible, chemical-free housing
4. Public Awareness
 - Education campaigns and healthcare provider training
5. Emergency Accessibility
 - Ensure shelters, transit, and communications are MCS-inclusive

This election is a chance to make clean, breathable air a right—not a privilege.
